The Assembly shall also receive and publish the annual financial report of the board concerning the fiscal year from October 1 to September 30. The Assembly will receive full reports from the Chest Board concerning operations of the past year. Also the Assembly will perfect the organization and set up for the next year as provided by the constitution.

Alabama Artists' Work To Be Exhibited

Continuing the policy established last year to present the work of local artists to students, the Art Center of Alabama College will sponsor an exhibition of paintings in water color by Alabama artists November 5-18 at Montevallo.

Striving to help students and consumers of art to develop an understanding and appreciation of the work done by Alabama artists, the Art Center each year gathers a collection of representative paintings at Montevallo. Last year's exhibitions featured paintings done by such Alabama artists as Frank Applebee, Maltby Sykes, and Charles LeClair. Alabama College bought representative paintings of all three of these Alabama artists for its permanent collection.

Paintings this year may be submitted by anyone living in the State of Alabama, if they reach the college by November 1. The paintings, in water color and unframed, should be shipped to the Art Department, Alabama College, Montevallo.

Information concerning the exhibition and paintings may be obtained from Miss Dawn Kennedy, Alabama College, Montevallo.

College Enrollment Breaks All Records

With an enrollment that has broken all existing records, officials of Alabama College, in the first week of classwork, are finding themselves hard put to cope with the throng of girls from all over the state who have descended on Montevallo.

Until other facilities can be made available, classwork is going on in local churches, in committee rooms, and on the stages of the college auditoriums. Despite additions to the plant made possible by PWA, and now under construction, the demands put upon the college by this greatest enrollment in history will more than fill all space which the new building program is making available.

In the late fall some of this unprecedented congestion will be relieved when the new Julia Tutwiler dormitory and Braxton Bragg Comer classroom building are complete. Tutwiler Hall will house 102 girls—girls who are now living three-in-a-room in Main Dormitory. Classes now meeting in temporary quarters over the campus will move into Comer Hall around December 1. Beside classrooms and faculty offices, Comer Hall also has a soundproof broadcasting studio and a lecture hall seating 200.

According to Miss Virginia Hendrick, registrar, the enrollment figures equaled last year's total second day of registration and have gone steadily upward since.

Texan Returns To Put Daughter In College

Mr. A. D. Jackson, chief of the bureau of publications of the Texas extension service, of College Station, Texas, through his visit to the campus of Alabama College last week made the institution conscious of its history. Mr. Jackson was a native of Crenshaw County, Alabama, and his wife was a member of the first class ever enrolled at Alabama College—that of 1896, when the school was known as a technical and industrial institute.

Occasion for Mr. Jackson's return to his native state was to enroll his daughter, Ina, as a freshman in the alma mater of her mother. In a brief speech to the faculty, Mr. Jackson said he had chosen Alabama College for his Texas-reared daughter "because you have preserved here in Montevallo the breath and spirit of the older South which we occasionally miss in our new Southwest."

Mr. Jackson is now associated with the Department of Agriculture and Texas A. and M. College.

Mr. J. A. Brown, Jr., and Mr. Norris Mathews left Tuesday for Tuscaloosa, where they will enter the University of Alabama.

Miss Ribble To Visit Alumnae Chapters

Miss Frances Ribble, alumnae secretary of Alabama College, this week begins her fall itinerary of visits to the alumnae clubs of former Montevallo students all over the state. She will be in Camden Saturday, September 16. While in Camden she will be the guest of Mrs. Julius Goodwin.

Miss Ribble is carrying details to the local clubs of the drive which the Alabama College Alumnae Association is making to raise $4,000 to equip Reynolds Hall on the campus and make of it a modern college union building. When the PWA provided funds for the remodeling, the alumnae undertook to raise the smaller amount needed to furnish Reynolds Hall where the student social life will center.

Miss Ribble's round of the chapters will include visits to Jasper, Bessemer, Tuscaloosa, Marion, Selma, Greensboro, Camden, Greenville, Brewton, Andalusia, Opp, Elba, Geneva, Dothan, Montgomery, Union Springs, Wetumpka, and Clanton.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH

The Rt. Rev. Charles C. J. Carpenter, of Birmingham, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Alabama, will hold Holy Communion Service in the auditorium of the Music Hall of Alabama College at 11 a.m. Sunday, September 17. All are cordially invited to attend this service.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Sunday School, 10 a.m. Preaching, 11 a.m. W. T. Pruett, Birmingham, minister. All services held in the Montevallo Girl Scout House.

BAPTIST CHURCH

"Christ's Ecclesia" will be the pastor's theme at the Sunday morning service. At the Sunday evening service he will speak on "Overcoming Hindrances to the Christian Life." Sunday School meets at 9:45 a.m. and the Baptist Training Union at 6:45 p.m.

Concert Series Opens October 2 With U. S. Marine Band

As a part of the southern tour which it is making this year by special permission of the President, the United States Marine Band will appear in concert on the evening of October 2 in Palmer Hall.

The band, familiarly known as "The President's Own," will be the opening number of the Montevallo concert and lecture series including this year such attractions as Eva LeGallienne, Nino Martini, Foldi Mildner, and Madame Pearl Metzelthim, and Virgil Fox.

The Marine Band, under the baton of Captain Taylor Branson, will give both a matinee and evening concert. The matinee program will be designed to appeal to high school and grammar school students, while the evening concert will feature numbers likely to please a more mature audience.

The forthcoming public concert tour will be the first the famed scarlet and blue clad musicians have paid to the South and Midwest in more than ten years. The band has built a wide following in the South because of its frequent concerts at past reunions of Confederate veterans.

In recent years programs of the Marine Band have come more and more to resemble those of the finest symphony orchestras, with the difficult selections of Wagner and Saint-Saens to replace the "beer hall and pretzel" band programs popular in pre-radio eras.

P. T. A. To Hold First Meeting Tuesday

The first meeting of the Montevallo P. T. A. of this year will be held Tuesday, September 19, at 3:15 p.m. at the Elementary School. Special attention is called to the time of the meeting—3:15 in the afternoon.

The topic of the association's programs this year is "Purposes of Education in Our American Democracy." Under this general topic the subject for the forthcoming meeting is "What is Democracy?" This subject will be discussed by Mr. E. H. Wills.

Members of the P. T. A. Executive Board for this year are announced as follows:

President, Mrs. F. H. Frost; first vice-president, Mrs. W. F. Tidwell; second vice-president, Mrs. E. P. Hood; secretary, Miss Wilma Baugh; treasurer, Mrs. J. L. Bridges; chairman: membership committee, Mr. W. J. Kennerly, co-chairman, Mrs. E. H. Wills; finance committee, Mrs. E. P. Hood; program committee, Mrs. J. L. Appleton; hospitality, Mrs. L. C. Clement Heads Scont Campaign For Funds

Marc Ray Clement, prominent Tuscaloosa attorney, has been chosen to lead the annual campaign for funds for the Black Warrior Council, Boy Scouts of America, according to announcement by Judge Chester Walker, council president, and Dr. H. G. Dowling, vice-chairman of the council executive committee.

Plans for the drive were discussed at a meeting of the council executive board held in Tuscaloosa on Wednesday, August 30, attended by representatives from the fourteen counties in the Black Warrior Council area.

A financial statement presented at this meeting showed that the council had operated within its income during the fiscal year ending August 31, and had also reduced to some extent indebtedness accumulated in previous years.

The report showed that a very active program of Scouting had been carried out throughout the fourteen county area, resulting in a forty per cent membership increase during the first six months of 1939. Twenty-nine new troops were chartered in the council area during that period.

The drive will be conducted in each community between October 1 and 31. Mr. Clement has already visited each of the fourteen counties including Bibb, Greene, Hale, Lamar, Fayette, Marion, Marengo, Pickens, Perry, Shelby, Walker, Winston, and Tuscaloosa, and has appointed campaign committees in each of these counties. Names of these committees will be announced shortly.

Dairyman Asks Milk Customers To Return Bottles

Mr. Kent, the dairyman, makes a plea concerning milk bottles this week which should have the ready attention of every one of his milk customers in Montevallo.

Kent's Dairy is losing money steadily and in considerable amounts through the loss of milk bottles that are not returned by people who buy his products.

This loss, he says, is chiefly confined to instances where people get milk at grocery stores and do not return the bottles to the place of purchase. As an example of his almost daily experience, Mr. Kent showed us figures on his business operations here last Saturday. On that particular day his trucks finished their routes in Montevallo and returned to the dairy almost 100 bottles short. Each bottle lost means six cents gone out of the dairyman's pocket.

Mr. Kent is distressed about this unpleasant phase of his business, and well he may be for it is obvious that he cannot stand such a loss continuously. Diligence of his customers in seeing that milk bottles are preserved and returned is the only way the matter can be corrected. Hence his appeal for help of those who buy milk. A bottle a day is a small matter to a customer, but when several customers each let a bottle get away, it is a considerable loss to the dairyman.

Moreover, it is the implied obligation of every person who buys milk to see that the bottle is returned to the dairyman promptly and in good condition.

Mr. Kent will appreciate your help toward seeing that bottles are returned.

October 1 Is Date For Renewal Of Motor Vehicle Permits; New Ones Last Two Years

Captain James F. Brawner, director of the Drivers License Division of the Department of Public Safety, announced yesterday that all holders of licenses to drive motor vehicles in Alabama who expect to continue driving after September 30 should file applications immediately with the probate judges of their respective counties for their 1940 drivers licenses. All such licenses now currently in use, it was pointed out, expire on September 30.

All necessary application forms, Capt. Brawner said, are now on hand at probate offices. Drivers now licensed may obtain individual application forms there on request, he added. "After filling out the form," he continued, "the applicant should return it to the judge of probate and pay him the required license fee of $1.10. This fee is the same for all classes of drivers, whether an owner or non-owner of the car, truck, or other motor vehicle concerned."

"The judge of probate will give the applicant a receipt for the fee paid, and will himself forward the application to this department. The driver's license will thereafter be mailed to him by the department direct. Each license issued will be good for a period of two years from September 30, 1939."

Examinations Required

Under the law, Capt. Brawner explained, "any non-driver who is not a holder of a 1939 driver's license and does not become a 1939 driving licensee prior to October 1 must, on and after that date, go before an officially authorized examiner of this division and undergo the required examination before a license is issued to him. He must, of course, pass the prescribed test to qualify himself as being eligible for a driver's license."

"This test will not be unduly rigid," he continued. "On the contrary, it will be reasonable and practical from every standpoint, based on visual, mental, and operative ability and competency to safely drive a motor vehicle on the highways and streets of the state. There will be 15 examiners who will hold tests in each county of the state at least once a week, following—

Health Officer Tells Of Mosquito Control

The County Health Department has had many complaints during the past few weeks in regard to mosquitoes. Also, an increased number of cases of malaria have been reported.

The frequent rains this summer have caused water to stand in many poorly drained areas for prolonged periods. This has made conditions favorable for the breeding of not only the pest variety of mosquito, but also of the malaria-carrying type.

At the present time, no drainage work for malaria control is being done in Shelby County. However, a number of the mosquito-breeding areas could be drained without great expense by the landowners and tenants living near them.

Where it is not possible to drain the areas, mosquito breeding can be kept to a minimum by oiling the pools and ponds once each week until frost. A mixture of equal parts of used motor oil and kerosene is the best and least expensive application.

Screening of houses and the use of insecticide sprays to kill the mosquitoes which gain entrance to the house are good protection. The house are good protection. protection from malaria and should be practiced if drainage of the swamps and ponds is impossible. However, the only permanent relief is from adequate drainage and proper maintenance of the ditches. E. F. Sloan, M. D., County Health Officer.

AMERICAN NEUTRALITY

It is a settled fact that Congress will soon be in extra session at the call of President Roosevelt, to have another scramble over the question of neutrality of the United States in the European war.

There are two wide-spread opinions in this country about our neutrality. The President is in one group which believes our arms embargo laws should be repealed, and in turn, a cash-and-carry plan of sale set up whereby we could sell arms, munitions, and war materials to any and all belligerents who could come to our ports, pay cash and get what they want, and carry it where they please by their own means and at their own war risk.

The other group contends that we should not change our present neutrality laws, which flatly forbid the sale of arms, munitions, and war materials to belligerents under any circumstances.

This writer believes that the proclaimed neutrality of the United States in the present European conflict is the correct attitude for our country to take. This course should be maintained consistently and thoroughly. If not now strong enough, our neutrality laws should be strengthened.

When our country proclaims neutrality, as it has wisely done, our statesmen should see that neutrality is preserved in both theory and practice of our laws to that end.

A neutrality law that proclaims neutrality in theory but actually works to the favor of one or the other of the belligerents should be made over to guarantee the actual result which is sought—and that is neutrality.

We hope when Congress gets back to considering this question it will resolve at once to take the medicine straight and give us neutrality laws that will not only say we are neutral, but prove it in the practice and effect of such laws.

NEUTRALITY OPINIONS

Senator Borah thinks the Roosevelt administration plan of revising our neutrality laws would "inevitably bring us into war."

Senator Thomas of Utah says the country should base its neutrality policy on "the fundamental rights of a nation to carry on its peaceful pursuits, even during a war, without being a party to the war." He declared the present neutrality law is based on a theory of "impartiality," which, "in a practical sense is utterly impossible."

President Roosevelt would repeal the arms embargo, giving all belligerents access to the American markets on equal terms, with a proviso that they pay cash for all purchases and take title to them before they are sent across the Atlantic.

In practice it is generally acknowledged such a plan would permit Great Britain and her allies to make purchases here, to the virtual exclusion of Germany, because of British dominance on the seas. Borah and his associates are firmly opposed to the administration plan. They argue that it amounts to taking sides in Europe's conflict, and thereby promises involvements which eventually will pull the United States into war.

On the other hand, administration leaders contend that the present embargo law amounts to giving Germany an Atlantic fleet.

Let us hope that, when Congress meets to consider the matter, it will be able to find out what actually constitutes American neutrality in both theory and practice, and that laws will be passed to guarantee that kind of neutrality. That is what it will take to keep us out of the European war.

How many Alabamians will take this pledge—"I will do my best to keep forest fires from destroying any timber this fall?" It means a better Alabama.

LIGHTS OUT

Armageddon has come to Europe again. More ominously prophetic than ever seem the words of Lord Grey, premier of Britain, spoken on that fateful night in 1914, when the start of the first World War was, but a few brief hours away: "The lights are going out one by one over Europe. They will not be lit again in our lifetime."

A Washington dispatch says "it is pointed out that England, France and Poland might interpret oratorical advocacy of repeal of our arms embargo as showing sympathy for their cause, while Germany might consider a speech in favor of retention as helpful to her."

Now, there is something for Congress to think about in the approaching special session.

Obviously, our country wants neutrality. Our Congress can make air-tight neutrality laws if it will. If it does not, we may expect to be drawn into the war ultimately. The only way we can stay out is to steer a neutral course that will not allow our resources to become the advantage of any belligerent nation.

Personally, we do not care who wins the European war. What we want is American neutrality. If we are not going to be actually neutral in both theory and practice, then we just as well take sides in the conflict and pitch in, for that is where we will soon land if we do not remain neutral.

NO PAY—NO PAPER

This is a notice for the information of several people who, perhaps, will not see it. Therefore, we ask those of our subscribers who do see it to pass the word to those who may be concerned:

If you hear of a friend or neighbor who does not get The Times this week, tell him that the trouble likely lies in the fact that his subscription has expired and his name got cut off the list for want of renewal. About a hundred or so got left in the shuffle that way this week.

Furthermore, you may do the paper and the delinquent a favor by assuring him that we would appreciate a renewal of his subscription and the restoration of his name to our list of readers.

The Times needs all the money we can get for subscriptions. In fact, we need all we can get from any source of business. But we do not need it bad enough to keep on sending the paper to people after their subscriptions are expired and not renewed after a reasonable length of time.

DRIVERS LICENSES

We promised more information on drivers licenses this week. We have it from the State Department of Public Safety. Elsewhere in this paper you will find the article in full. Read it. It is now time to see about this matter.

This week he is preaching in an open-air revival with Rev. Bennie Hubbard at Brierfield, with Mr. Nolen leading the singing.

"I would not be back in the world for all the material things in it," said Lem, as he talked to me of his conversion. "I am just a babe in Christ," he said, "and I feel unworthy of being even a door-keeper in His house, but I am determined to do all I can for His cause and apply myself to the work of helping to save lost souls from now on."

Mr. Ingram's many friends rejoice with him in his new-found happiness, praying that God will sustain him in his ministry.

ing a regular schedule of which the public will be advised by printed notices posted in courthouses, and appearing in the press. Each examination will require from 15 to 20 minutes. Applicants should feel no apprehension in submitting themselves to the test as any reasonably good driver should be able to pass it without difficulty.

"Sergeant Roy J. Grubbs of the State Highway Patrol, as chief examiner, will direct the work of examination. He has but recently returned from Ann Arbor, Michigan, after completing a special course to fully qualify him to perform the duties of the important post to which he has been assigned. The special course of which he has had the advantage was conducted jointly by the National Safety Council and the university faculty of the University of Michigan, and was attended by men from all sections of the country who are either engaged already or soon will be in direction of the same activity of which Sergeant Grubbs is to have charge in Alabama."

Some Confusion Yet

A report from Montgomery says the probate office there is declining to accept applications for drivers licenses and announced that none would be received until October 1, which is the first day of the new fiscal year. Yet, state authorities have said applications may be filed now.

Other county probate offices are reported to have refused to accept applications and payment before October 1.

The Montgomery probate office says applications may be secured now but could not be returned there until September 30.

Must Appear in Person

While this point has not been made clear, it appears that the requirements of the new law provide that after filling out his application blank, the individual must present it in person to the probate judge and pay $1.10. This would imply that no transactions in the procedure may be made by mail, nor by one person for another.

We wish Judge Walker would write us a letter telling first how these various points are to be applied by his office so we can publish the same for information of the people who are concerned.

Friends of Mr. Henry Garrett, a former resident of Montevallo, who is now living in Russellville, will be interested to know that he is attending the University of Alabama, where he is studying pre-law.

Dodge Dealer Tells Of 1940 Models

Motorists Will Be Surprised By New Features, Says Local Car Merchant

One man whose knowledge of what new automobiles a lot of motorists will drive for 1940 is up to the minute, first-hand and authentic, is Mr. G. T. Towery, of Towery Motor Co.

Mr. Towery has just returned from Birmingham where he participated in a field conference called by sales officials of the Dodge Division of Chrysler Motor Corporation and attended by a large gathering of Dodge dealers and dealers' sales and service executives.

"The meeting had several important purposes," Mr. Towery reports. "First there were interesting reviews of the wide public acceptance of the 1939 Dodge models. These reviews were followed by discussions of sales and service plans for 1940 and by presentations of advertising, sales promotion and new model demonstration procedures designed to acquaint the public with the unusual attractions of the 1940 Dodge models."

"I was very impressed," Mr. Towery said on his return, "by reports read at the meeting of large numbers of orders for 1940 Dodge cars that were being placed not only by the dealers, but by customers who have still to see the new cars for which they have already signed up. I regard this action on the part of so many motorists a significant tribute to the manufacturers and as a sign that augurs well for our future."

"Naturally, the most interesting part of the meeting," Mr. Towery admits, "was the dealers' preview of 1940 Dodge passenger cars, factory samples of which had been specially shipped to the conference. Though the cars impressed the dealers who saw them by their obvious, eye-filling beauty, no public statement of mechanical changes and innovations is authorized just yet. These details will be revealed at 'announcement time,' when the whole story of the new Dodge will be told to the public."

"Many motorists," Mr. Towery said, "may think that automobile engineers had about reached their limits in what they could do, by design and by scientific weight distribution, to make the cars smooth-riding and comfortable; I can assure them, however, that they will be in for a surprise when the new models arrive in this city — very soon."

IN MEMORY

(In memory of A. J. Kendrick, 89 years of age, who passed away June 14, at Chelsea.)

Our dear grandfather was so sweet and kind,
But Jesus called, "Come, child of mine,

Let's go to live in another place,
You have already won your earthly race."

He struggled here for many years
With sorrow, disappointments, and many tears.

But now it's over for he's at home,
Never again on this earth to roam.

It caused us sorrow to see him go,
But he was so faithful here below

That we have the assurance he's living on high
Where loved ones never say goodbye.

So, friends, let's hold to God's right hand
And meet granddad in a better land.

His granddaughter,
Bernice Kendrick.
